In this controversy we have been care ful not to express any opinion, and shall try to maintain a neutral position, but it is simply just to Mrs. Knox to say that we know of reliable parties who are ready to testify to the truth of the following:

COLORADO SPRINGS, May 13: 1878.

To the Faither of the Garette. DEAR SIR: It appears from your issue of Sunday mothing that W. H. McIndic has a "burden" too. Being acquainted with the McIntire propensity, this does not surprise me, and may serve to confirm what many believe, that he is just as unscrupulous as his brother, but not so shrewd or capable of living by his wits. If he had told a half truth, admitting that he found the envelopes and brought them to me, as I can prove, and stubbornly professed ignorance of their original contents, I should have been powerle willut to deny having found and brought the two envelopes, is the exponent of a guilty conscience. The mere supposition that he or his brother still held or had destroyed these papers, has become a moral certainty. Ovestions are not evidence; but in order hat this first attempt the escape Con the ignominious position of a spy and become alwriter of fiction may not prove fruitless his question marks shall be looked squarely in the face. That I feel the keenest humiliation in the condescension, none can doubt; but a woman who is unhappily placed for a time to fight a man's battle, must stand upon a man's feet, and have more than a woman's courage.

To hasten the obnoxious business, I will answer the statement, the questions, and the insinuations all in one:

I solemnly affirm that W. H. McIntire did, as I alleged, bring me to my cottage, after the lamps were lighted one evening, early in the week succeeding. Mr. Knox's Senator Conorer reported an aniendment to

Mr. Knox kept his personal letters at the house, but all his other personal papers were kept at the bank. W. H. McIntire, in common with every employe or officer of the bank, knows this: He may now leave for the first time, that despite his watch-dog espionage of Mr. F. W. Adams, and Mr. C. E. Greenough, whenever they approached or only retire from before Constantinuple entered the bank vault, these gentlemen. did find and bring to me many valuable private papers in sealed envelopes, propedy filed, with their contents undisturbed. The two envelopes brought me by Mr. Mc-Intire are still in my hands, or at least where I can command them. This is not the first time that a similar cowardly effort has be haviade to drive me from some strong hold of evidence.

LIVIS ISSUES FUR THE COM-ING CAMPALON.

We have understood that the republican congressional committee have decided to make selections from certain southern newspapers and make them up into campaign documents to be distributed through the north so as to affect the fall elections. We have not the slightest doubt but that these documents, if distributed, will exert a powerful influence in the coming elections. They will undoubtedly give the close congressional districts to the democratic party and make sure of a democratic majority in-both branches of the national legislature.

The waving of the bloody shirt during the last five years has nearly waved the republican party out of existence. It has changed a republican popular majority 4. 700,000 in 1872 to a demodratic popular majority of 160,000 in 1876. The people believe that the southern question is settied for the present, and that a revival of the issues of ten years ago would be disastrous to the best interests of the country. What the people do care about is economy and purity in the administration of the gover were the party about makes the altove two things most prominent will wan in the coming election,

The democratic party can beasily be put on the detensive in this way. On the other hand if President Hayes is endorsed the republican party can point to the great returns introduced by ta picsent administration. Of its own accord it has reduced the expenses of the tipsary department over a million of dollars. In the simple matter of paying pensions, a saving of $147,000 has been effected. The members of the cabinet, instead of running the mithine, are busily engaged in adminiticians. They will repudiate the republican party, if the politicians of the last regime control the coming campage, and repudinte the roilly live issues.

CONVICT LABOR.

The Albany, New York, penitentiary is now not only paying its own way, but is also paying a handsoine surplus into the county treasury. The wisdom of having convicts labor avaid seem to be demonstrated by the above fact. But the national groupback party of Pennsylvania, adopted resolution on Thursday last saying that the prison contract system should be prohibited." lastead of earning their own hving, these hearty, strong convicts we to be supported by taxes levied on the people. This seems to be the neight of inconsisiency in a party which of taxation. The objection to convict labor in Pennsylvania is that it lowers the wages of workingmen. It seems to us that it would be better to compel the convicts to work if they did not receive more than ten cents a day. They should not than ten cents a day. They should not a good supply of excellent matter. Colo-necessarily be a builden to the state, even rado Springs has reason to be congratuif they are a pest to society.

Fortunately, the greenback party of Pennsylvania is accepted and artistically arranged, and the not sufficiently strong to carry out its abparer starts out on its new career with state opposed to convict labor?

A recent letter to the Boston Herald on the grant the grant the grant and the grant back party in Maine has affracted considerable attention. In 1870 the greenback party gave-603 vet 2 for Peter Cooper; in 1870, 5,266. votes A e cast for the green rock candidate for governor, who was a Universalist minister. This spring the party claims to have cast 13,000 votes, and expects to cast 25,000 votes this fall. The rapid growth of the party is a subject of astonishment to the solid men of New England. The founder of the party is Solon Chase, a miller, who is a plain, honest man and is thoroughly imbued with the Ewing, Voorhoes financial bued with the Ewing, Voorhoes unancial Scories. He circulated his views mainly through the columns of a newspaper called Chuse's Chronicle. His paper was the only greenback paper in the state up to this winter, but there are now eight papers devoted to the dissemination of these permits ious doctrines. Though there is no danger of the party carrying the state, yet at is probable that they will-hold the parance of power, and give a good deal of trouble to the republican party. There is also some danger of their defeating the re-election of Eugene Hale. The greenback party of this state should be looked after. If there is a thorough discussion, there is no doubt as to which party will win.
